MARSHFIELD. Ore., September 16.—
The race against death of the liner Congress, when that steamship caught on fire late Thursday, was one of the most stirring events in the history of Pacific coast shipping, according to officers of the vessel here, today.

As soon as the seriousness of the fire became known the ship's bow was turned toward Coos bay, with full steam ahead. Despite the efforts of the crew the fire gained headway, and the smoke beliched forth from every portion in increasing volume. On the by a sailor.
